

have regained some considerable share of his former health; but the improvement was only apparent, for on the night of the 12th of April he was seized with apoplexy, became rapidly unconscious, and died early on the morning of April 13th, 1870, in his fifty-fifth year. He leaves no record behind him to testify to his work beyond that which is indelibly written on the hearts of all his friends and patients.

THE ALEXANDER MEMORIAL PRIZE.—The Director-General of the Army Medical Department presents his compliments to the Editor of THE LANCET, and requests he will be good enough to announce that the prize of a gold medal, value £10, and £50 offered by the Committee of the Alexander Memorial Fund for the best essay on "The Etiology and Prevalence of Diseases of the Heart among Soldiers as compared with the Civil Population of those countries in which they are called upon to serve," has been awarded to Arthur B. R. Myers, Esq., Assistant-Surgeon, Coldstream Guards. A second essay, with the motto, "The physician understands, &c.," was pronounced of nearly equal merit, and strongly recommended for publication. There were only five essays offered in competition. The subject for the next triennial prize is under the consideration of the Committee, and will shortly be announced.

BARON LIEBIG.—This eminent man had been for some time suffering from nervous headache, and, after some improvement, is now laid up with carbuncle. His physicians consider that he is likely to do well, as his health, for many years, has been excellent. The Baron is now sixty-seven years old.

The case of the young men in women's clothes came up before Mr. Justice Blackburn on Thursday; but on the application of Mr. Serjeant Parry, counsel for one of the defendants—an application in which the Attorney-General, counsel for the prosecution, concurred—the trial was postponed until next sessions.
